

The MediMARE Project Team gathered for two intensive days of meetings in Trondheim, Norway, on May 22nd and 23rd. NTNU Social Research hosted the meetings and other important activities to gather the group and strengthen the success of our future activities.

The representatives of each Project partner were: From NTNU Social Research: Kristine Storkersen, Stian Antonsen and Torgeir L. Haavik; from University of Coimbra: Dulce Lopes, Fernando Borges and Roberta Donato; from Polytechnic of Leiria: Cátia Marques Cebola and Ana Paula Alves; and from Nova University of Lisbon: Lia Vasconcelos and Francisco Libreiro.

The meetings were very productive and decisive for the planning of future activities, specially the Intensive Course in Leiria, the Guidebook and the Final Dissemination Event. Important decisions were made and tasks were attributed to the participants, with respective deadlines.

During the pauses of all work meetings, the group had socialization moments (also very important to the team to mingle and work in a more efficient manner). A snowman was built, and it became the MediMARE Mascot, named “Mare”.

The project team also visited the Trondheim Maritime Museum, to establish an important partnership for the Final Exhibition, which will start on the Dissemination event.

After the Museum visit, we could walk around Trondheim to know the city and its history a little bit. Such special moments contributed to bonding and increasing of productivity.
